

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data transmission system has a first electronic apparatus for transmitting a synchronous signal at each of preselected intervals. A second electronic apparatus has reception periods synchronous with respective synchronous signals transmitted from the first electronic apparatus and receives the synchronous signal during each of the reception periods.